NEW YORK EVENING WORLD CLAIMS BOMB WAS INTENDED TO BLOW UP HOUSE WRECKING JOB

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The Evening World today, under the heading, "Wall Street Explosion Solved," declared that through an independent investigation it had discovered that the bomb which killed more than thirty persons September 16 was intended to blow up a house wrecking job near the Morgan office.

The bomb was sent by independent members or sympathizers with House Wreckers' Union, Local No. 95, which had a grievance against the Brindell Building Trades Union, Dock Builders and House Wreckers' Union, No. 1456, members of which were working on the house wrecking job, the Evening World said.

The bomb wagon was driven by "a big stolid Pole," who did not know what was in it, the newspaper asserted. The bomb was a clockwork machine, set for 12:02 p. m., it said, and was consigned to the contractor at work on the house wrecking job.

OPPOSE NEW BOULEVARD

GLENDALE WELFARE ASSOCIATION TO ACT FOR PROPERTY OWNERS

PERMANENT SOCIETY

POLICY IS OPPOSITION TO THE IMPROVEMENT OF SYCAMORE CANYON ROAD

The "Glendale Welfare Association," the purpose of which is to act for the interests of the property owners in the territory covered by the "Sycamore Canyon Road Improvement Assessment District," has been organized with a large membership list and meets weekly at the residence of J. P. Lukens, Verdugo Road and Broadway. Its present object is announced as open and aggressive opposition to the improvement of Sycamore Canyon Road under the present plan, which proposes to put upon the people of that section a financial burden which they claim is not justified. The territory in the assessment district embraces practically all of the city east of Everett street and bids are to be opened Friday evening by the city trustees. The trustees acting under the law of 1911, which gives them the power to do so, are proceeding against a petition of protest representing a majority of the territory involved. While the present object of the association is as outlined above, it is proposed to make the organization permanent, probably meeting regularly in the new Broadway schoolhouse as soon as the assembly room there is equipped.

Maurice Healey is president and Miss Mary A. Burgess secretary.

The speaker for the day was Miss Jenkins of Los Angeles, who gave a very interesting talk on the value of P.-T. A. in the home. After a social hour, the meeting adjourned.

GLENDALE IS WIDELY KNOWN

MANY FAMILIES IN AUTOS HEADED THIS WAY HAVE IT AS GOAL

THOUSANDS ON WAY

IN ONE AUTO CAMP WERE 1500 MACHINES ALL BOUND FOR SOUTHLAND

C. A. Kidder and wife are new residents of Glendale who arrived from Aberdeen, South Dakota, a few days ago, by auto, and who have about settled for the rental of a large property in which to locate until they can buy or build. Mrs. Kidder told A. J. Lucas, the real estate man on South Brand, that she and her husband had heard much of Glendale as the fastest growing city in the United States and when they left home it was with the resolve to shape their course at once for this city. And their dreams as to its beauty and ideal location were more than realized when they arrived. Mrs. Kidder said that in a large auto camp in Arizona or New Mexico, she did not know which, not being familiar with state lines, there were 1500 autos parked the night they stopped there, and all were bound for California. At Scarrow, New Mexico, she said, there were 245 autos in the camp and she took pencil and paper and went about among the occupants, asking their destination. Four out of five, by actual count, were bound for Glendale. In fact, that name was heard on the way as much as Los Angeles. In view of such statements as these, it certainly appears that there should be no let-up in Glendale's building operations.

In this connection the following letter received a day or two ago by Mr. Lucas from Warren Griffith, superintendent of agents for a Chicago Casualty company, is quite significant:

"Dear Sir:—I wish to purchase a five-room bungalow in good repair, on a large lot and well located, not more than six blocks from Brand boulevard. I would prefer one built in 1914 or 1915. Desire immediate possession on or about November 25th or December 1st. My requirements would be a large living room, good lawn and garage; location, away from the dry river bed which runs back of Arden avenue. I have lived in Glendale so know all locations and the values."

Doubtless some of the Evening News readers know Mr. Griffith and family and will be glad to welcome them back to Glendale if they succeed in locating here.

Reading Circle

The Mutual Benefit Reading Circle held its 179th meeting in the library building yesterday afternoon. A large attendance was present. Mrs. C. L. Derrick gave a review of two articles by Irving Bacheller, which were "The Turn of the Tide" and "The New Birth." The articles dealt with life in New York apartments. The author said that New York was the most "distinguished" minkiller in the world. It was said that 95% of the young men who go to New York could have done better in a village, and that character is largely the result of environment. He also said that the future of the nation is up to the women. Mrs. A. M. Rowe made the plea for Red Cross membership. The reading of "Increasing Home Efficiency" was continued. This brought up considerable discussion on the high cost of children. Next week Wednesday will be "Old Members' Day." It is expected that many will respond to the invitation to be present at this time.

Informal Luncheon

Mrs. John Fanset entertained a group of friends, at luncheon on Wednesday, complimenting a girlhood friend, Mrs. Howard Stannard, of Memphis, Tennessee.

Places were marked for the honor guest, Mesdames R. D. Angelica, Bert Ward, Ben Phillips of Los Angeles, and Miss Bessie Gruber, and the hostess.

Red Cross Workers

The Mary Jane Gillette Tent, Daughters of Veterans, announce as their committee in charge of Red Cross Roll Call work, Ruth Spafford, chairman; Mildred McKee and Audrey Hall.

IS IT ALL A DREAM?

LOOKING BACKWARD 2 YEARS WE REALIZE BUT DIMLY MEANING OF IT ALL

ARMISTICE DAY

ATTENDED BY DELIRIOUS JOY AND MAD REVELRY; BIG CROWD

Two years ago today the most awful war the world had ever known came to an end when the last shot was fired at 11 a. m. on one of the battlefields in France. The moment the thunder of the guns died away the news was flashed all over the world that peace had come. In every city hamlet and rural community in all this broad land there was a delirium of joy and a common impulse to celebrate the glad event in some way. Not then the soldier and sailor boys were here to take their part in the celebration, as today, but it was their fathers, their mothers, sisters and brothers, who, realizing that the awful suspense was over and the loved one was sure to come back to them ere long, gave free rein to the mad rapture that was welling up in their hearts. Like magic, autos, decorated with flags and banners and filled with cheering people, appeared on the streets and soon lined up for a parade. Tin cans and old pans trailed along behind many of the autos and the occupants were cheering, waving flags, blowing horns and singing songs. Small boys on bicycles careened here and there on bicycles, also dragging old cans and other noise-making articles.

A parade was formed, nearly 400 machines taking part and all the principal streets were traversed. Traffic laws were suspended and all went where and how they would. The parade lasted until after dark and everybody was supremely happy. There were some striking banners and designs in the parade. A number of them featured coffins very prominently, signifying that Kaiser Bill was the corpse. The boys of the fire company carried on one of the big trucks a she goat and the banner, "They Got His Nanny." One banner read "Kaiser Bill—His Last Ride," another, "Good-bye, Bill," and still another, "Closed Season for Killing Women and Children."

Only two years ago all this happened and now we ask ourselves, "Was it all a dream? Did Germany really try to conquer the world, spread death and desolation wherever her mighty armies trod and halt only when the brave boys from countless American homes swept forward with resistless bravery to demonstrate to a war-stricken world that the mighty young nation of the West was determined to put down autocracy forever? No, it was a dream reality, but on this joyous November 11 of 1920 we put all this behind us and in the celebration of the morning paid tribute of love and respect to our fallen heroes, then set our faces hopefully forward to the dawning of the bright day of peace, enduring, triumphant peace.

To Build Bungalow

Frank Follansbee, of 512 Riverdale Drive, has sold the lot at 510, belonging to his cousin, Miss Carrie F. Knights of LaGrange, Ill., to Mrs. R. H. Rogers, who is now living in the recently-completed home at 445 Riverdale. She will build on the lot just purchased and this will be the third handsome bungalow erected by Mrs. Rogers in Glendale recently. The first was at 436 Vine and it was bought by J. H. Garnsey. The next was on Riverdale Drive. Miss Knights, whose lot was bought by Mrs. Rogers, is a daughter of the man who subdivided this tract, which was known as the Knights subdivision of the Riverdale Heights tract.

Meeting Postponed

On account of today being a legal holiday, the regular meeting of the board of trustees of the city of Glendale will not be held this evening, but will be held tomorrow evening. The law governing the time of holding meetings of the board specifies that when the day of the regular meeting occurs on a holiday, the meeting may be legally held the following day without any official action being taken by the board.

WEATHER FORECAST—Unsettled with probably occasional rains tonight and Friday.

HIS DOUBLE LIFE NOT A SCANDAL

BUT A TRUE STORY OF A GLENDALE BEAUTY LOVER

MUSIC OF BROOKS

FLOWERS AND TREES NATIVE OF DIFFERENT PARTS OF THE WORLD

Joseph Gervais, of 112 West Chestnut street, leads a double life.

It looks like the lead for a scandalous story when you see it here in black print, written right out in the columns of the Evening News, a paper noted for its freedom from subjects harrowing and sensational.

But wait—it's quite true, but not at all scandalous; on the contrary 'tis a tale much to the credit of the hero of this story.

During the hours of every work day of the week Joe Gervais is a finisher of fine woods, an artisan whose work is much esteemed by the Los Angeles firm which employs him; but that is not his real life at all (worthy as his service is), though few suspect it.

Evenings and Saturday afternoons and Sundays Mr. Gervais lives a life all his own, his real life, in a world which he himself has created.

The great flamboyant dahlias which just now flaunt their beauty in his front yard and the hibiscus of unusual variety which grows nearer the front porch of the house, standing back a ways from the noise of the street, give a hint of the material of which Mr. Gervais has built his real world.

Selfishness or exclusiveness have no place in this wonder world. The open sesame is a real interest in the wonders of plant life. Ask a question about some rare plant, or express delight at the lovely amaryllis which Mr. Gervais has cross-pollinated until he has a giant blossom of beautiful tints, and immediately you will be recognized as one of the elect, and inducted into the wonders of the back yard.

Astonished, you hear plainly the babbling of a brook; but you think yourself mistaken, for how could there be a babbling brook in an ordinary back yard in Glendale? It is

RECITAL UNUSUAL

WM. M'RAE, YOUNG PIANIST, AND HERBERT SHARP, READER, PARTICIPANTS

Tuesday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. McKee, 634 N. Kenwood, there was given a piano recital of an unusual nature. Mrs. Eva Cunningham presenting her star pupil, Wm. McRae, only 7 years old, who plays selections of the most difficult character, and Herbert Sharp, a talented young reader. William is so small that his feet barely touch the pedals, but his talented fingers move in perfect touch and time through the intricacies of the many difficult selections. The program opened with a piano duet and then these numbers followed in the order given:

"A Boy's Mother" (James Whitcomb Riley), Herbert Sharp.

"Unlucky Bill Green" (Edward A. Guest), Herbert Sharp.

Group of Selections (Goodrich) and "In an Alabama Cabin" (Cadmans), Wm. McRae.

And Still They Come

Mr. and Mrs. Way have lived in the Southland before, but this is their first Glendale visit, and this time they brought with them their son-in-law, daughter and granddaughter, the Chesneys. They may decide to locate here permanently.

Dr. A. R. Koen moved Tuesday from his location at 1263-A South Brand boulevard to Los Angeles.

TO STRIKE IMMEDIATELY IF WAGES ARE CUT

VICE PRESIDENT DUNCAN WARNS OF BIG STRIKE WHEN CONTRACTS ARE BROKEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Organized workers will strike instantly at the first attempt of any employer to cut wages in a union shop in violation of existing contracts, Vice President Duncan of the American Federation of Labor warned here today upon leaving the opening session of the federation's executive council.

"The American Federation of Labor will back them up," Vice President Woll added.

GERMAN WORKERS SEIZE BIG FACTORIES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERLIN, Nov. 11.—German workers today seized a metal factory here and extinguished the fires. Other factories were invaded simultaneously. Police surrounded metal factories, planning an attack to dislodge the strikers.

Police reserves and troops were held in readiness for action in event the seizure of factories should result in fighting or develop into another Spartan outbreak.

BAD ACCIDENT

LOCAL MAN AT BEDSIDE OF BROTHER INJURED WHEN AUTO SKIDDED

Wilbur Chandler, engineer at the Crystal Ice company's Glendale plant, has been in Los Angeles all week where he was called Sunday afternoon by the news of a serious automobile accident in which his brother, his sister-in-law and their baby were seriously injured.

The accident occurred Sunday afternoon about two o'clock, at the corner of York boulevard and Pasadena avenue. The pavement was wet from the recent rain, and the automobile skidded sideways, crashed into a standing street car and threw out the occupants, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Chandler and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Hall, who are Mrs. Chandler's brother and sister-in-law, and a friend who was driving.

Mrs. Chandler sustained very serious injuries, a fractured hip and an injury to her back being the most serious. She is expected to recover. The baby was frightfully hurt about the head and may die. Mr. Chandler was cut and bruised, but not seriously injured.

Mr. Hall and the man who was driving also escaped with minor injuries, but Mrs. Hall is so seriously hurt that her recovery is doubtful.

Wilbur Chandler went to Los Angeles as soon as the news reached him, and has remained near the hospital where the injured are being cared for to give them what aid and cheer he can.

KENSINGTON CLUB

BRANCH ORGANIZATION OF W. R. C. HAS SUCCESSFUL MEETING

The Kensington club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Louise Purnell, 253 Ivy street. There were fifty-four in attendance. The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Louise Purnell, Mrs. Jennie Phillips, Mrs. Dennie, Mrs. Queen Danner and Mrs. Edith Bruck. The house was beautifully decorated with bouquets of chrysanthemums and roses. The program consisted of several readings and piano selections by Mrs. Burros, and violin solos by Miss Dorothy Danner, accompanied by Mr. Bruck on the piano. The meeting proved to be a very successful one. The Kensington club is a branch organization of the W. R. C.

New City Directory

We are still short many names for the new directory. Several visits have been made to some houses without finding anyone at home. Remember, if you have not given the names of your family to an enumerator, please do so at once, so we can get the directory out just as soon as possible. Urge your neighbors who have not been seen, to phone, write, bring or send in the information desired to the Evening News office, 139 South Brand boulevard. If your names have been secured and you have moved since, let us know both the old and the new address at once. No changes in address can be made after November 15th.

TO PLAN FOR TOURNAMENT

PASADENA ASSOCIATION WILL INVITE NEIGHBORS TO PARTICIPATE

NEW YEAR'S EVENT

CIVIC SECTION TO BE A BIG FEATURE OF THIS YEAR'S PARADE

Sometime in the near future representatives of the civic bodies and newspapers of every community in Southern California will be invited by the Tournament of Roses association to be their guests at a "get together" banquet in Pasadena.

At this meeting the Tournament association will bespeak the interest and advice of those assembled in order to insure the success of the 1921 Tournament of Roses pageant.

Entries from other communities will be especially featured in the 1921 pageant. Special arrangements will be made, according to the committee, to make this division one of the greatest features of the parade, if not the greatest.

"It is estimated that more than half a million people witnessed the passing of the parade last year," said Chairman B. O. Kendall of the parade committee, who served in a like capacity for the 1920 pageant. "In that vast throng were scores of thousands of strangers who got their first real comprehension of the spirit of Southern California from that mile of flowers. We feel that there is no better way for sister communities to present their charms to the stranger and home folk than this one and we are, therefore, asking all Southern California to come, take part and enjoy the 1921 Tournament of Roses."

Patriotic Program

The Central Avenue P.-T. A. meeting yesterday afternoon took the form of a patriotic program, in keeping with the eve of Armistice Day. The program follows:

1. Salute to the Flag.
2. Star Spangled Banner.
3. In Flanders Fields, by Melville Bannard.
4. America's Answer, Robert Reinhard.
5. Our Men, Marian Duey and Mary Farmer.
6. Solo, The Americans Come, El-tarae Kirk; encore, Khaki Boy.
7. The Peaceful Warrior, Carol Toll.
8. Song, America, the Beautiful.
9. America's Creed, led by 6th grade pupils.
10. America, by everybody.

A business meeting followed the program, after which a social cup of tea was enjoyed.

Mrs. R. D. Angelica and Mrs. Arthur Dibbern were the luncheon guests of Mrs. Bert Ward of 451 Myrtle Street Tuesday.

PIRATE PARTS

IMPORTANT THAT THE FORD DEALER BE ABLE TO DIS- TINGUISH THEM

An interesting feature of the Ford Service Bulletin, the magazine issued by the Ford Motor Company to help Ford dealers in their service work, is the department which helps Ford dealers to distinguish between genuine Ford parts and the vast number of spurious Ford parts that have made their appearance on the market in recent years.

In the matter of such parts as Ford connecting rods, for example, it is very important for the dealer to be able to detect "pirate" products. It is a feature of Ford service that if a customer comes in with a connecting rod to be rebabbitted he does not have to wait to have the rod he brings in repaired. Every Ford dealer keeps a stock of rebabbitted connecting rods on hand, and the customer simply exchanges his worn rod for one the dealer has in stock and pays the cost of rebabbitting.

It is of the utmost importance for the dealer to be certain in making such an exchange as this that he gets a genuine Ford rod from the customer, according to Mr. Graves. The average spurious connecting rod is usually made of low grade open hearth steel, and is of a quality entirely inadequate to stand the heavy work demanded of a connecting rod. The Ford rods are made of chrome vanadium steel of the highest quality.

A number of Glendale people are availing themselves of the opportunity of witnessing the football match between the Army and Navy, which takes place at Pasadena today.

Mrs. S. C. Leppelman of 357 Milford street entertained a number of Los Angeles friends yesterday afternoon and evening at an informal party in celebration of her birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Beal and daughter Imogene of Akron, Ohio, are spending the winter with Mrs. Beal's parents, L. C. Denman and wife of 327 Madison Court, and may conclude to locate here.

One of the men who is lending his efforts to relieve the house shortage is S. M. Browne of Los Angeles, who is building on Maryland avenue. He has purchased several other lots and is building homes to sell.

Mrs. G. W. McKee and Mrs. J. C. Plannett have returned from an extended visit in the east, having spent a year in Marion, Indiana. They are making their home with Mrs. C. Clavin, 422 North Jackson street.

F. H. McPherson of the Elks Club House had the extra tire, casing, tube and rim stolen from his machine as it was parked on South Brand Tuesday night. At 1:30 the same night Officer Mann picked up the casing at San Fernando Road and Brand.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Painter and family, who have recently come to Glendale from Houston, Texas, have leased property on Grand View avenue near Sixth street, and expect to buy later. Mr. Painter is employed by the Pullman Car Company in Los Angeles.

At the irrigation reservoir, near the junction of Sycamore Canyon Road and Sinclair avenue, boys with target rifles recently shot holes in one of the big galvanized iron tanks, letting out over a hundred gallons of oil. The parents of these boys should see to it at once that such target practice is stopped, as it may cost them considerable money in damages.

The Wednesday club met at the home of Mrs. Herbert Reed of Long Beach, formerly of Glendale, yesterday. A most delightful day was spent, during which luncheon was served. Those present were Mrs. Minnie Hester, Mrs. Wm. Nash, Mrs. Chas. H. Sanders, Mrs. Wm. Gibson, Mrs. G. D. Roach, Mrs. J. F. Hearnshaw and Miss Clara Ringer of Glendale, and Mrs. Fleishman of Los Angeles.

The church night supper at Central Christian last evening was attended by over 60 persons. W. J. Stone of Paso Robles, a former elder in the church here, was present and made a short talk. Strangers in attendance were made known to the home people. The bible study on the first nine chapters of Acts followed, then a short prayer meeting, after which the Bible School cabinet held its usual monthly meeting.

Mrs. T. P. Miller of 211 West Park avenue has as her guests Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Nash of Sonoma.

The Evening News went to press about an hour earlier today to give the carrier boys a chance to make their deliveries in time to attend the foot ball game.

L. A. Kittredge of 559 West Colorado reported rather an unusual theft to the police yesterday. A canvas cover, 20 feet square, that he used to cover his auto with until he can build a garage, was stolen during the night.

Jean Walker was a member of a duck-hunting party which motored to Chatsworth Lane last Sunday. He reports being the only member of the party who shot any ducks, but that it was necessary for him to wade into the lake in order to get them.

The Madrigal club held its first rehearsal of the season at the home of Mrs. Chas. A. Parker, 212 North Orange street, yesterday afternoon. The Madrigal club is going to give a program at the first meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon club in December. Mrs. Parker has recently returned from a visit in the east.

Harry L. Howe arrived in Glendale last evening from Coachella Valley, where he is principal of the High school, and is spending several days with his family at 446 Burchett St. Prof. Howe had as his Sunday guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank Card and Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Wells of Glendale, who motored to Coachella.

A. L. Baird, Dr. T. C. Young, Dr. J. P. Looch, Harry McBain and Max Green in one machine, and "Happy" Easton, Roy Hincheliff and one of the latter's employees in another machine, started about midnight for Buena Vista Lake to hunt Canadian geese, which are said to be very plentiful up there. They expect to be back in the morning.

H. O. Braun of 1624 1/2 Lake Street, Los Angeles, was driving west on Colorado yesterday and in trying to avoid a car driven north on Brand by L. J. Cashon of 1917 Gardena, bumped into a city truck which was standing by the excavation which had been made to get at the telephone company's conduit, bending a fender and ruining a tube.

West Side Building Up

The extreme west side of the city is coming into its own more and more in this great epoch of home building. The Kenilworth tract of many scores of lots was completely sold out by the Edwards & Wilsey Co. and many new homes are rising on them. Now Mr. McGregor has secured a compact group of 24 lots west of Kenilworth avenue and lying between Doran and Mildred, which will be sold for home sites. Alexander, Chester, Concord and State streets in this west section are showing many new homes started and it is expected that a number of people of moderate means will take advantage of the chances shown. A good many people come out here from the East with only a thousand to fifteen hundred dollars. Such as these can buy a lot for a hundred dollars down or maybe a little more and then use the rest of the money to put up a two or three-room house to live in until a larger one can be built.

Armistice Dance

There's going to be a gay time at the K. of P. hall tonight. Cal Walner, who manages the Saturday night dances given by Sunny's orchestra, has arranged for a special Armistice Day dance. There are going to be some great big battles with serpentine, confetti and noise makers, all free to the dancers. A Pyralin ivory toilet set is to be given as a prize for the winner.

From Paso Robles

W. J. Stone, a former Glendale resident who now lives in Paso Robles, was a guest at the dinner given by the Christian church last evening.

Mr. Stone still finds Glendale attractive, though he likes Paso Robles, too. Apparently 'tis a case of "how happy I'd be with either, were I other dear charmer away."

Surprise Visit

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Stevenson, of 352 Pioneer Drive, were pleasantly surprised yesterday when they came home and found the house in the possession of Mrs. Bradbury, an old friend from Olympia, Washington, who had come to make them an unexpected visit.

Are You One?

Who get up with a grouch.
Who come to business with a long face
And prop themselves up in a long corner of the elevator
Without saying "Hello" to a blessed soul;
And throw a dark shadow over the whole office.
So that every one there forgets what a nice day it is
And suddenly feels bored, plugging away at his work
Instead of enjoying and taking pleasure in it?

OR
Do you smile and make the world smile with you,
Give a cherry greeting to those you meet,
And happy to be doing good work for a good company where 'most everybody is a regular fellow?

What's Your Letter?

Have you ever been chased by a letter? No, not the sort of letter that you forgot to mail for your wife in the morning, but one of the family of twenty-six in the alphabet. The wise men who study etymology, that high-sounding science of language, are about to spring a surprise. They will tell you that men of notable careers quite often center the high spots in their lives about one letter; that this process is unconscious, and that the letter soon takes to pursuing the personage who has stepped on its tail, and thereafter gets involved in all his doings.

You don't put much stock in that? Well, you needn't, but a notable example of the theory, which by the way, smacks quite a bit of superstition, will serve to illustrate. The example is Napoleon. M was his letter. Six of his marshals, twenty-six of his division generals had the initial M. His two marriages and the birth of his son occurred in March. At Marseilles Marbeuf first saw Napoleon's genius. His crucial battles included Montotte, Mantua, Miletimo, Mondovi, Marengo, Malta, Mont Thabor, Montmirail, Mormans, Montereau, Mery, Montmartre, and, at Waterloo, Mont St. Jean.

Metternich worsted him in diplomacy. Moreau betrayed him. He surrendered to Captain Maitland. His last residence in France was Malmaison. At St. Helena his companion was Moulthol and his valet Marchand. He died in May.

Propose to Hold Crops

The manufacturer holds his product until he can obtain a price that covers the cost of manufacture and gives him a reasonable profit, and the merchant only in exception if cases will sell goods from his shelves at a loss.

Representatives of the farmers' organizations of the United States, who recently held a conference in Washington, have agreed upon a plan to withhold farm products from the market until such a time as the price shall at least equal the cost of production.

Briefly, the farmer proposes to follow the method adopted by other productive and distributive interests—that of keeping his products until he feels justified in disposing of them. He seeks to avoid being the victim of efforts to force down the prices of his products while the cost of things he must buy remains high.

The farmers propose to limit the supply of wheat and other grain and the other products of the farm to an extent that will cause the public to bid for them, thereby bringing the price to a point that will insure a reasonable profit.

If the farmers, even in reasonably large numbers, adopt the policy agreed upon by the Washington conference, what can the government do about it? Well, it is practically assured that the government can do nothing at all.

The farmers do not propose to fix prices by agreement, which would bring them in conflict with the laws which penalize acts in restraint of trade. What they propose to do is to act as individuals, but in harmony with the plan which they believe will bring the results they desire—better prices for their products.

The experiment will be watched with interest. There is no law that can compel the grower to dispose of his crops, and if large numbers of farmers decide to wait for better markets, the ultimate consumer will soon feel the effects of a rising food market.

How does it come that a man's courage cozes out at the ends of his fingers when he gets cold feet?

Enter Banking Business

An interesting experiment in banking was inaugurated in Cleveland a few days ago by the opening of a national bank under the auspices of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, one of the "Big Four" of the railway fraternity and one of the most conservative organizations of labor in the country.

According to the charter, the new banking house will be known as "The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Co-operative National Bank." The name is somewhat unwieldy, and it will probably be shortened to "Brotherhood Bank" by its patrons.

The promoters of the new bank have made it plain that it has not been formed for the purpose of making class distinctions, but that the facilities of the bank will be open to all persons who desire to avail themselves of them. The bank will be operated under strict supervision and by experienced banking men.

A considerable number of labor advocates have been somewhat critical of what they call the "capitalistic classes," and it may be helpful in a general way to have a branch of organized labor enter the banking business. It may have the effect of giving many members of organized labor a new light on the financial interests of the nation.

The new bank will find it desirable to maintain the closest affiliation with other national banks, all being subject to the same general regulations, and this should give it a standing that will create a greater appreciation of banking methods on the part of many persons who have looked with suspicion upon banks and bankers.

The business of the banks of the United States has made an unusual record in deposits and resources during the last 12 months, according to figures recently issued by the comptroller of the currency. Deposits and depositors are increasing, and there is room in each large city, probably, for such an institution as has been established by the railway brotherhood in Cleveland.

Value of Silence

"Silence is the best resolve for him who distrusts himself," said La Rochefoucauld. The maxim has been taken to heart by a Boston convict, who was released from prison the other day on completion of a twenty-five-year sentence. For ten years he has not spoken a syllable, writing on a pad in answer to every question as to why he did not talk: "My tongue has got me into too much trouble already." Betrayal by a fellow prisoner of a confidence is the reason to which his extraordinary course is ascribed.

If what the philosophers have said in praise of silence from ancient times down to the present should be accepted literally the man must be regarded as a model of wisdom. "Speech is silver, silence is golden," says an old proverb; or, as Carlyle puts it, "Speech is of time, silence is of eternity." "I have often regretted my speech, never my silence," said an old Roman. He added: "Let a fool hold his tongue and he will pass for a sage."

But he will also pass for a sour, glum creature. He will have few friends. Conversation is the very life-blood of social intercourse. The silent man or woman is perforce a recluse—or a "wall flower." If he has nothing to say, he must ransack his mind for something and say it anyway. Almost anything will suffice. The most banal platitudes concerning the weather are preferable to silence. Indeed, the more frivolous the conversation, the better are the conventions satisfied. Profound subjects cannot be discussed glibly.

Hoboes Are Coming

This is going to be a bad winter for a lot of young fellows who have been working at good wages, spending what they earned, and now find themselves out of work and out of money.

Hundreds of them are due to drift through communities of all sizes and in all localities before spring comes. Organized charity takes care of a certain number. It cannot reach all. When a man faces you, asks straightaway for the price of a meal or of a bed, how will you answer him?

For advice go to the king of tramps, William Davies, whose volume on his experiences is a veritable encyclopedia of hoboery. Davies has some simple rules. Here they are, in brief:

Ask some questions of your accoster. If his story hangs together well, he is probably an impostor, an old hand at the game.

The fellow who approaches you with a hang-dog look, blushes, mumbles and carries himself generally as though he were guilty of something, is probably all right. He is a novice at hoboery. Perhaps this is his first lowering of pride to the extent of asking for something for nothing.

If he says he is industrious, tells you his religion and asks for railroad fare all in one breath, distrust him. If he is dirty, and looks like a stage tramp, don't be too sympathetic. Many hoboes dress for the part. A man worth helping will beg soap and water at the first farm house—and get it.

The California Highway Commission has a force now engaged in graveling four miles of state highway south of Crescent City, Del Norte County, having purchased $25,000 worth of state highway bonds to cover the cost thereof.

Announcement

Williams, the electrical contractor, wishes to thank the scores of Glendale people, who, by their patronage, have made possible the almost phenomenal growth of a business started only a month ago, and which, because of the scarcity of suitable store rooms, has been conducted under adverse conditions. Since Oct. 1, we have equipped more than 60 new homes for Electric Lighting, Heating, Electric Bells, etc., and we gratefully acknowledge that a large part of this business has come to us thru the "Boosting" of a satisfied clientele. From this date Mr. J. C. Haines will be associated with Mr. Williams, and the business will be conducted under the firm name of The Williams-Haines Electric Co. We will open our store at 616 East Broadway (opposite City Hall) about Nov. 17, with a full line of the Latest and Best in Electric Fixtures. We solicit your business on the basis of Square Dealing. If you wish to equip that new home with lighting fixtures that will enhance its beauty and value, it will pay you to look us up. ## RED CROSS ABROAD

It had been expected that by this time the work of the Red Cross in Europe would have been entirely concluded.

This is practically true along the Western battle line where the American Red Cross has been operating since 1917.

In France, Belgium and Italy, work of the Red Cross is practically finished and its forces are practically withdrawn.

In Eastern Europe, however, misery is so apparent and the necessity is so evident that the Red Cross is only hindered by the magnitude of the task that lies before it.

In the presence of the greatest threat of disaster that the world has ever known, the American Red Cross cannot but stand by and do what it can to still the tide of disaster.

There is still maintained, therefore, a European headquarters in Paris under the direction of a Commissioner to Europe. There are Commissioners to Poland, Serbia, Montenegro, Albania, Baltic States and Constantinople. In Czechoslovakia, Greece and Roumania work has been practically concluded and the commissions are being withdrawn.

OTHER WORLDS

There is nothing more inspiring than when puny man, his eye roving the universe, dares to look undaunted at its wonders and speculate on what goes on in worlds other than his own. From Galileo to Herschel and Flammarion there have been earnest astronomers, little concerned with the paltrier happenings close at hand, who have kept up this lookout in the heavens for the rest of mankind and have, from time to time, given tidings that startled and allured our imaginations.

The most recent of these devoted searchers to report something of great moment is Birkeland, the eminent physicist of Norway. It is in the laboratory, not through the telescope, that he has made his great discovery. It appears to bear out his theory of the universe; it seems to have drawn us a little nearer to the solution of the unfathomed mystery of existence.

Birkeland believes that the universe is a vacuum, and that the planets, constantly besieged by a shower of electrons shot out from the sun, give out their various, puzzling lights when those electrons come in contact with the planetary gases. What is an electron? We only know it is a form of energy, the smallest expressible.

In his laboratory Birkeland has set little metallic balls revolving in a vacuum chamber. He has bombarded them with electrons, and then has introduced a variety of gases. He reproduced the rings of Saturn, the canals of Mars, the Aurora Borealis of the Earth. If he has found the gases that envelop our sister planets, and has proven the universe a vast vacuum dotted with little revolving balls, this is a help to future generations of our scientists. It enables them to calculate what needs to be overcome when man, no longer puny, but the master, shall set his foot in other worlds and wrest its secrets from the universe.

It is a tiny step, perhaps, but it is a step.

FRANCE CONQUERS

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, Nov. 10.—Within two years after the signing of the armistice, France has worked two veritable miracles—one of readjustment and one of reconstruction.

As a result of this miracle of readjustment, although France was the one allied country that suffered most from the war, and the one country in which the increase in the cost of living was the greatest, she is the only one of the big allied powers who today is entirely free from any strikes or social unrest of an economic nature.

Furthermore, she is the only one of the big allied powers who in the same period of time has been able to free herself fully and definitely from the menace of bolshevism. The death knell of the latter was sounded a month ago when in national convention at Orleans the French Federation of Labor almost unanimously condemned the leaders who up until eight months ago ordered and supported political strikes amongst the French workmen.

Instead of waiting, as much of the rest of the world has done, for economic life to re-establish itself on the pre-war basis, France saw at once that this would never happen and immediately readjusted herself to the new economic life imposed by the war.

The official statistics of the allied countries place the increase in the cost of living in France as a result of the war at 300 per cent.

Yet, despite this astounding handicap, official figures of the French Ministry of Public Instruction show that salaries generally throughout France have now been increased from 200 to 300 per cent.

It is this quick readjustment of the whole economic basis of French life to the new standard of living created by the war, that has left France entirely free from industrial strikes for the past nine months and has wiped out completely the menace of bolshevism.

All France is hard at work today on a fairly contented basis to repair the havoc and damages wrought by the war.

Like all other allied nations in Europe, one of the greatest damages to France from the war was the increase in her importations and the decrease in her exportations resulting in the frightful decrease in the value of French money in foreign countries.

Yet the most astounding progress is being made to remedy this by increase in French production and consequently increased exportation and decreased importation.

During the first seven months of 1919 France exported only 4,776,402,000 francs worth of merchandise and produce. For the first seven months of 1920, these exportations were increased to 12,006,630,000 francs, a gain of over 7,000,000,000 francs. France's total importations for 1919 were 29,778,000,000 francs against only 8,713,000,000 francs of exportations.

For all of 1920 it is estimated that her importations will only be 37,304,000,000 francs and her exportations 20,582,000,000, showing a steady progress towards the re-establishment of equal importations and exportations necessary to overcome the present ruinous rate of French exchange.

As regards commercial relations with the United States, France's importations for July from America which totaled $58,961,554 were reduced for the month of August to $38,321,950, showing how fast French industries are getting back on a basis where they can supply the needs of France without recourse to foreign countries.

France has kept equal pace in the reconstruction of her devastated regions.

Of the 2,712,000 French citizens who were driven from their homes by the German invasion, 1,533,000 are now back on the job.

Of the 5,760 kilometers of railway destroyed during the war 4070 kilometers are back in operation.

Of the 5,760,000 acres of land rendered uncultivable because of the presence of unexploded shells and mines, 5,220,000 acres have been cleaned and put back into cultivation.

Of the 3,060,000 acres of ground that were pounded into nothing by shell fire and other war activities, 2,870,000 have been restored to productivity.

Of the 11,500 factories that were destroyed by the war 3540 are already back in operation and another 3842 are under reconstruction.

Of the 379,000 people who were employed in these destroyed factories before the war, 257,831 are back at work in them.

HIS DOUBLE LIFE

no mistake. A short distance back of his house Mr. Gervais has wrought the wondrous thing—a rocky bed over which a brooklet, trickling in music the exact counterpart of that of a brook known to him back in his old Wisconsin home, wanders in and out among the rocks until, making a sudden sally, it forms a waterfall and splashes down into the pool below. Numerous happy fantail goldfish swim about in the fresh water of the pool, whose overflow runs under a rustic bridge and on out into the garden.

Among the rocks and about the pool grow rare plants in a woody, natural manner—ferns of several rare varieties, a native Norway tree, umbrella plants, a ginger plant, cottonaster trailing its red berries in the water, springer, a small red-wood tree at one side, plants with unpronounceable names and the daintiest of blossoms, holly ferns, and Australian tree ferns, and maidenhair in its natural environment.

The sunlight filters down through a lattice work overhead just as it filters through the leaves of the forest trees. In this lattice work there is an overhead sprinkling system which gives exactly the effect of gentle rain. Over the supports of this lattice wanders a baby fuchsia which has climbed up to mingle its exquisite bloom with a tall, feathery fern. A rare specimen of wandering Jew, a banana plant, a coleocacia from Africa, a banana plant from the South, Japanese palms, woodardias (a native of our southern canyons), "impatience" (more beautiful than its name, for it bears a delicate white blossom tinged with pink), which was given Mr. Gervais by an old French gardener, Kenilworth ivy, diffenbachia, magnificia, and plants from all parts of the world, with even more unpronounceable names, dwell amicably side by side, their environment so skillfully camouflaged by their skillful gardener that each thinks himself in his native habitat.

Four loads of rocks, twelve sacks of cement and an ordinary half-inch water-pipe were the concrete materials that formed the abode of the chatting brook and its lovely surroundings; but these things would still be but the prosiest of substances had not the imaginative, poetic brain of Joe Gervais transmuted them into a thing of living beauty.

A walk from the brook leads to the hot-house where Mr. Gervais coddles "the little fellows," as he affectionately calls them, and those that are too delicate to thrive in the outside air. Here are most beautiful varieties of colorful foliage plants, the daintiest species of maidenhair and other ferns, coleus from Africa, India and the Malay Archipelago. A screen door and screens over the skylight protect the plant-inmates from the birds, who dispute ownership of this charming place with Mr. Gervais, and slander and gossip about him as they feast on the fat bugs outside in the garden. This hot-house is heated by an ingeniously contrived, automatic-heating system in the cellar of the Gervais home, which also heats the water used in the house.

The beauty of dahlias appeals so strongly to this nature lover that he insists on their blooming twice in a season. This favor he coaxes from them by petting and generous feeding, a canny method of getting one's own way with others besides plant-friends.

"Why don't I put my pretties in the front yard for others to enjoy?" Mr. Gervais repeated the question put to him. "Why, I'd love to," he laughed, "but they won't leave them there for me or anyone else to enjoy. People come along and steal them. I had a rare, beautiful plant in the front yard; I didn't mind plant-lovers' taking slips from it, so long as they knew how to slip it—I'm not sure I wouldn't steal a slip myself, if I couldn't get it any other way—but one morning I discovered some one had carefully taken up the whole plant and transplanted it to his own garden. It cost me twenty-five dollars, too," he added, a little ruefully.

Mr. Gervais had a short vacation recently. As he was starting out one day to visit a nursery he had long been wanting to browse in, his wife warned, "Don't take more than a dollar or so with you, Joe; you know your failing."

Mr. Gervais, like every other good husband, gave heed to the words of his wife—but he came home with over twenty-five dollars' worth of slips. No, he didn't steal 'em; he says the nursery man thought he had an honest face and trusted him to send in the money.

"Oh, well," says Mrs. Gervais, philosophically, "he doesn't spend it for drink or even for tobacco; and it gives him a wholesome interest, something to do, and something to study. It might be worse."

We'll say it might! But if you go to see the beauty-spot created by Joseph Gervais, you must "borrow his ear and his eye, or the beauty will vanish, the music will die." In other words, you must "belong," or his world is a closed world to you.

required the said plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the Complaint, arising upon contract or said plaintiff will apply to the Court for any other relief demanded in the Complaint.

Given under my hand and seal of the Superior Court of the County of Los Angeles, State of California, this 20th day of August, A. D. 1920.

L. E. LAMPTON, County Clerk.
By RUGBY ROSS, Deputy Clerk.

FRIENDS

A short time ago a London newspaper offered a prize for the best definition of "A Friend." Among the many thousand answers which were received, the one that was awarded the first prize was:

"The first person who comes in when the world goes out."

The second prize was given to the definition sent in by a small boy, who wrote:

"A friend is a feller who knows all about you and likes you just the same."

Both of these definitions are worthy of thought.

How many times has every one needed a friend "when the world goes out" through the death of a loved one, the wreck of business or the failure to achieve one's most cherished desires! In those moments, many whom we have considered to be our friends have forsaken us. With the loss of money our so-called friends have melted away. With the decline of power and position those who have flattered us and made us believe that their friendship would be everlasting, are found among the missing. It is on those occasions that the first person who is ready to lend a helping hand, to breathe a word of consolation in our sorrow, be he the acquaintance of a day or of a lifetime, is a true friend.

In these days of rush and hurry, of moving from place to place as business or other requirements may dictate, we make many acquaintances, but few real friends, and as a man or woman advances toward middle life the chances of making new and tried friends diminish. It is those we have known since childhood, our schoolmates, our college chums, our first associates in business who are our staunchest friends. Never in the glamour of the new, who come to us with fair words and specious promises but who fade away like morning mists before the sun when storms of adversity arise, should we let go of an old and tried friend.

Shakespeare knew the value of an old friend when he wrote: "Those friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, Grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel."

Yes, the old friends are the best—the "feller who knows" all about you and likes you just the same.

ESSEX beats wreck special

Thrilling Night Ride!

The night of the wreck (Oct. 30) one of our local papers phoned me, "Can I have a dependable, fast car for a rush trip to a railroad wreck?" "Yes," I replied, "and it will be an Essex, which has just come back from a fifteen-hundred-mile desert trip."

In spite of the terrific grind it had just been through, that Essex was fit to go. At 10:40 that night a special fast train left with railroad officials. The Essex left at the same moment with two reporters, two photographers and a driver. The destination was the wreck on the Salt Lake, far out on the desert, northeast of Barstow.

Through the night the railroad special rushed on. "A clear track," was the order—40, 50, 60 miles per hour it sped.

And the Essex? From Los Angeles to San Bernardino was even with the locomotive. Then came the climb over the Cajon Pass. On sped the train and the Essex, with Essex ever gaining. At San Bernardino it began to rain. The storm continued throughout the mountain run. Soon the train reached the real grade, and the Essex, too, but the mountain trail was many times steeper than the railroad grade. At the summit, 4150 feet above sea level, the train was not in sight.

The Essex reached the wreck, was there two hours for photographs and was nearly back to Barstow before it met the outgoing special.

The Essex time to Barstow, 145 miles, was three hours and a half, including stops: (1) by speed cop at Pomona; (2) to put on chains at San Bernardino, and (3) for gas at Victorville.

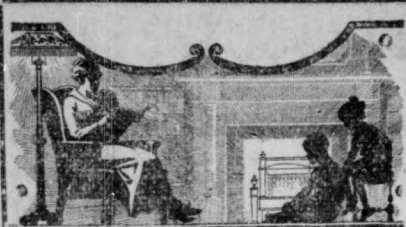

This is another demonstration of the dependability in Essex cars. They are noted for maintaining schedules, for power and speed to meet every emergency, and for wonderful comfort over rough roads at high speed.

These are the qualities which carried Essex four times from ocean to ocean faster than ever driven by motor car, averaging 4 days, 21 hours, 32 minutes for each trip. Essex also holds the World's Endurance Record of 50 hours continuously over 60 miles an hour, a total of 3037 miles, never equaled by any other car, an incident only in Essex performance.

NOVEMBER ELEVEN

The world went delirious with joy through a long, glad day when peace smiled upon it just two years ago. There has been a grisly anti-climax to the lofty tragedy of war that then seemed ending for all time. Wars have come again and new wars threaten. In many places there is no peace.

Russia turns wearily to face a long winter; Ireland is torn with strife; Britain, Poland, Greece and Italy have come to no end of their troubles. Nor have we in America found a solution for all of ours.

Yet we dare hope. The pathetic joy with which we welcomed back our lads from France—alas, not all of them—is a shining memory. We have seen them slough off their military habits with as great ease as they shed their uniforms. Again they are a part of our normal daily life.

Let us remember today that these lads, though the glamor of their knightly warring be a little less obvious than before, are still our heroes. Let us not forget their patience, their privations and their courage.

Above all, let us never waver in the purpose to which our war and now our peace-time efforts are directed. War must be ended. That is America's pledge to her dead who sleep in France.

AIR MAIL TO CUBA

Inauguration of airplane mail service between the United States and Cuba is not extraordinary, since, though separated by water, the distance between the two nations is not so great as that covered by many of the mail-carrying airplanes in land trips in this country. It is interesting, however, as portending the extension of the service to other countries. We may expect ere long to be informed of arrangements for carrying postal matter to the South American countries by aircraft. And who doubts that within a decade or two mail will be transported through the air between America and Europe?

When that day arrives it will be possible for New York and London to exchange letters as promptly as may now be done by New York and Chicago, for it has been demonstrated that an airplane can cross the Atlantic in less than 24 hours.

What will be the effect of this quickening of communication? It will tend to knit the world into a homogeneous whole. Nothing did more to unify the United States than the improvements in transportation, which enabled the people to travel and to spread information and opinions before they became stale. About the time of the American revolution it took several weeks to send a letter a distance of 800 or 900 miles. It is rather surprising that the colonies, so remote from each other in the time required for transmitting messages, were able to join hands as they did. Railroads helped to unite the states of America. Airplanes will help to unite the world.

THE ARCTIC OIL STRIKE

The discovery of gold was sufficient to take untold numbers of adventurers to the Arctic wastes in far Northern Alaska. If the oil strike on the Mackenzie river, 1500 miles north of Edmonton, proves as valuable as it seems, the fact that the spot is 1200 miles from the nearest railway and 900 miles from the nearest calling point of a river boat will not deter men from going there in the search of riches.

The world is calling for oil and if oil is there in quantities to warrant the expenditures not for long will the spot be remote. The rigorous climate will prove but an incident if the returns from the work of the drill promise large profits. If the cost is justified railroads and pipe lines speedily will reach into the frozen north. Because the surface is so frost-bound and uninviting to man, perhaps nature has stored underneath that which man needs for his comfort.

But searching for oil in the Arctic regions is a proposition quite different from that which faced the gold hunters who dared the worst that Alaska could offer. While seeking gold was in a large measure possible under individual effort, the quest for oil is a business for capitalists. It involves tremendous outlay before any profit can be hoped for. It is a field for operations of the most daring. The Arctic strike is on Canadian territory, yet any discovery, no matter where, that promises to augment the stock of oil is of interest to the entire world. It may mean more oil for the British, but, if it is of volume, it means more oil for us also.

THE BRUSSELS INVENTORY

Later news from the recent international financial conference at Brussels lacks official formality and authority, but possesses the merit of giving information that failed to reach the public through the regular channels. There is informative value in the statement from representatives of the great powers that of 12 European nations only one is able to escape a serious deficit for the year. The mere announcement directs American attention to a depressing coincidence which is a continuing condition in the supplementary news, that of 39 nations represented every one presented the same program of difficulties. Here the coincidence becomes obtrusive, for every one of the 39 nations sent representatives to Brussels with a single aim—to have their economic ailments cured by application of American gold.

European delegates gave the impression that they believed nothing more necessary to bring swift relief than a plain admission of their relative bankruptcy. That was supposed to be the key that would open the door to abundance, and accounts for the bluntness of an American delegate who dissipated the illusion in a few words.

Paris courts raise objections to Americans using their facilities for obtaining divorces. It appears that they are perfectly willing for Reno, Chicago and other American cities to retain distinction in that line.

The poorest man in the world, it is said, can find food aplenty in Tahiti. But he must find the money for his passage first.

COMMANDER GALBRAITH ISSUES MESSAGE TO MEMBERS ON ARMISTICE DAY

(By United Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—National Commander F. W. Galbraith, Jr., of the American Legion today issued the following message on Armistice Day:
"The swift triumph of our arms and those of our gallant allies, which two years ago gave us the victory, the anniversary of which we celebrate today, marks the high-light of the present century in American affairs. Victories such as Armistice Day commemorates are not the issues solely of clashes of flesh and steel. They are of finer quality than that. They are the triumphs, as well, of an unconquerable spirit.
"No victory, however complete, long can survive the spirit that conceived it. The annals of mankind are replete with example, splendid triumphs in behalf of splendid causes, that have gone for naught because the spirit that made them ceased to endure.
"This is only the second anniversary of Armistice Day—a day destined, if we will, to keep company with the immortals of the calendar that mark great moments of history that shall never die. Succeeding generations will acclaim Armistice Day. God grant they always shall acclaim it in the spirit that made it; and that this spirit, like the day, shall be imperishable.
"With this prayer in our hearts let us renew each year our vows of fealty, repledge and keep unshakable our faith in the high ideals, the lofty purposes, the unselfish aspirations and exalted, holy hopes that fired the hearts of Americans in 1918 and made ours a land, from whence crusaders came, with souls aflame, worthy of their victory.
"To this end the American Legion, today and forever, solemnly pledges its all."
Posts of the Legion in all parts of the country are planning Armistice Day celebrations at which the government Victory Medals will be distributed to veterans.

THE WAR DEBT

HALF HAS BEEN PAID; TWENTY-FIVE YEARS TO RETIRE REMAINDER

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—On the second anniversary of the signing of the armistice that ended the world war, America's two foremost leaders in that conflict are making ready to step back into private life. Just two years ago today President Wilson, standing in the House of Representatives, read to an assemblage of congressmen, cabinet officials and diplomats the terms of the document the Germans had been forced to sign. Today, the president—a white-haired invalid—a casualty of the great war he helped end, his friends say—is making ready to leave the White House for some quiet home where he probably will write a history of the great events in which he stood as a leading figure.
Gen. John J. Pershing, head of the American Expeditionary force, soon will put aside the khaki. The first full general since Grant has finished his reports. His work in connection with the army reorganization act is practically over. The general expects soon to take a trip to South America as an official representative of this country. Beyond that his plans are not known.
Along with President Wilson, there will retire several cabinet members who helped carry the burden of America's war effort. Secretary of the War Baker and Secretary of the Navy Daniels are two of these. Secretary of Labor Wilson, who helped keep the country free from labor troubles during the days of conflict; Postmaster General Burleson, who managed the telegraph and telephone lines, and Secretary Houston, now in the treasury and formerly at the head of the Agriculture Department, will also leave the cabinet.
But if the war leaders are passing, America still has before her sufficient reminder of the days when the German hordes were turned slowly back.
Throughout the country on next Sunday memorial services will be held for more than 100,000 American soldiers who were killed or died of disease—114,465 is the exact number, according to government statistics. President Wilson has officially proclaimed next Sunday as the day for memorial services.
Nineteen thousand five hundred men wounded and disabled, many of them crippled for life, are still in government hospitals undergoing treatment, according to figures of the War Risk insurance bureau.
Some American troops are still in Europe. They constitute the army of occupation, 15,000 strong at Coblenz, Germany, where the American forces were assigned under terms of the armistice.
And, according to all reports, these soldiers are living a vastly different life from those who tramped through the mud and lived in dugouts. Because of the decline of German money, the American soldiers with their $30 a month are in the millionaire class. Germany not being dry, a large glass of beer can be obtained there for one cent in American money. Other prices are in proportion.
Nearly half of the cost of the war to America in actual dollars has been paid, according to Treasury Department figures. This, however, is exclusive of the $10,000,000,000 loaned the allies.

Exclusive of that $10,000,000,000, former Secretary of the Treasury Glass estimated the war cost this country $26,007,000,000. Of this $11,180,000,000 was paid in taxes during the course of the war and afterward. Two and a half billion more has been paid since the armistice—a total of $13,680,000,000 paid.
Under present plans of retiring the debt it will take about twenty-five years to retire the remainder of the war debt.
